

Attract, Engage and Retain Your Best Employees

Easily offer a student loan benefit program with BenefitEd

Much of today's workforce is faced with student loan debt. Employers can help their employees pay off that debt with an innovative tax-free benefit. With a student loan repayment program, employers contribute funds to be paid directly toward employees' student loans as a part of their benefits package. Reducing an employee's student loan debt directly improves their financial situation - and reduces the stress created by debt.

The case for student loan repayment:

69%

of students graduating from four-year colleges have student loan debt¹

70%

of borrowers have delayed saving for retirement due to their student loan debt²

- 39% of recent grads said a loan repayment assistance benefit is important¹
- 53% of employees said they would rather have student loan repayment assistance than additional vacation or time off²
- 64% of employees said they would use the student loan repayment assistance benefit to make extra payments on their loans³

94% of employees want the benefits they're offered to have a meaningful impact on their quality of life, such as paying off student loan debt⁴

Student loan repayment has three direct benefits:

Recruitment

Retention

Engagement

The BenefitEd Effect

Including BenefitEd in your benefits package does more than give your company a competitive edge. Helping employees lower their debt at a quicker pace has an immediate positive outcome on a person's financial wellness, which pays dividends in other areas. You will spend less time recruiting and training employees and increase productivity due to fewer vacant positions.

Here are two implementation examples that show the positive effects BenefitEd can have on your workforce:

| Industry | Company A | Company B |
|--|--------------------|--------------------|
| Total Employees | 500 | 1,000 |
| Average Industry Turnover | 25.0% | 16.8% |
| Average Cost of Each New Employee (recruitment, training and onboarding) | $25,000 | $16,000 |
